Home-Cooked Meals + Food Culture

Imogene Tondre & Yamilet Magariño Andux

Are you ready to take the culinary experience of your trip to the next level? Taste authentic Cuban home-cooked meals, accompanied by a presentation about Cuban food culture, with cooking classes offered by Imogene Tondre and Yamilet Magariño Anduxare.

Imogene, originally from California, has been living in Cuba and working on food-related projects since 2010. She completed her Master's Degree at the University of Havana, in which she studied the intersections between Cuban food culture and the private sector. Imogene is the co-author of Cuba: The Cookbook, recently published by Phaidon.

Chef Yamilet graduated from the Culinary Federation of Cuba and the Latin American Pastry School. She has hosted television cooking shows and published several cookbooks. Yamilet is the leader of the Alliance of Cooks of Slow Food Cuba.

Enjoy an exceptional presentation and hands-on experience with your choice of a full lunch menu or a selection of typical tapas.
